

DryDreams Sleepwear for Women

September 2, 2009

Staff

Anne and Kirby Best, the co-founders of the innovative line of DryDreams Sleepwear, developed their products in response to Anne's hyperhidrosis, which is more commonly referred to as night sweats. She unfortunately suffered from hyperhidrosis when she was undergoing chemotherapy treatment but now that she is cancer-free, her and her husband have taken a pro-active measure to provide women with a smooth, comfortable line of sleepwear that will keep them dry when they sleep.

While sweat-wicking athletic shirts and long sleeve rash guards successfully manage to keep you dry, their discomfort prevents you from enjoying a hassle-free night of quality sleep. Pajamas, nightgowns, cami's and pillowcases at DryDreamsSleepwear.com provide women who experience untimely night sweats with a dry and comfortable night of sleep.

Each piece of sleepwear possesses revolutionary microscopic silver ions that are embedded into the comfortable fabric in order to provide women with odor control, which is sure to appeal to pregnant women as well as those who are enduring menopause.

Not only will you be purchasing an immensely useful and practical sleepwear item when you make an order from DryDreamsSleepwear.com but you will also be contributing to an extremely worthy cause.

DryDreams Sleepwear's co-founders display their admirable generosity by donating 100 percent of the profits that are generated after operating expenses to reputable Breast Cancer research organizations.